About

All about the designer

I am currently attending Brigham Young University Idaho. I am studying Business Finance with a minor in home design. I'm a Florida native, and you will normally find me either at the beach or at home reading. I love to travel, and have been able to visit a bunch of cool places. I have a love of cooking, and i'm always trying out new recipes to perfect. I have a passion for interior design, and have a great attention to the little details.

Elements & Principles of Design

Martha's Vineyard Interior Design

The windows from the picture above, fills the room with natural light, and illustrates an example of Light

There is Rhythm by Progression from the bookcase and the roof beans, as it draws the eye along the lines, to the door, and unto the view outside.

There is Rhythm by Repetition from the couches facing each other, and from the window panes.

The built in bookcase is an example of Structural design because of its functionality.

Elements & Principles of Design

Historical concepts

There is Symmetrical balance with the lights, shelves, and windows.

Emphasis is in the focal points of the room, which are the painting and the fireplace.

Proportion is shown by the couches flanking the coffee table

Mass is shown by the coffee table.

Rhythm by contrast is illustrated in the black accent on the painting, on the window shades, and on the wall light fixtures. the fireplace.

Texture is shown in the wood in the fireplace, in the painting, and in the wood grain of the coffee table.

The figurines on the shelves are an example of decorative design because it's only purpose is to be decorative.

Line is shown in the window panes, and in the built in shelves.

This is my favorite because of the neutral colors,
the open floor plan, and the wood beams.

The Law of Chromatic Distribution (G, RO)
Bed Threads
The green countertop shows the law of chromatic distribution, because it is the biggest piece in the room, and the most colorful.

This is my dream bathroom space. It is a 15' x 18' room so it is a very spacious master bath. The requirements for the project were these. It needed to have a big walk in shower, lots of light, and have a spa feel to it. I also wanted to have his and her walk in closets.

To make sure this space had lots of light, there is a big window behind the freestanding tub. There is also light fixtures in front of the double sinks and around the vanity. To attribute to the spa feel, we are keeping to more neutral colors and making it more moody with the decorations, and the black tile throughout. There are two closets on either side of the room with the entrance in the middle leading into the master bedroom.
